About Me

The computer isn't working as it should.

It just won't perform like it could.

The speed of the internet is slow.

It's not living up to its goal.

I'm unable to perform what I must

But I am stuck in this terrible rut.

Are users burning up the internet,

Looking for useless stuff?

It angers me to think they can do what they want.

At my expense, on my clock.

Don't they know I've got work to do.

It's all about me, not them or you.

Oh my God, I'm one of them.

Thinking of myself and not anyone else.

What have I become?

Just another selfish bum?

Think of me, not you, that's me.

What a pitiful society we've become.

Is there any charity left today?

Maybe we need to stop and pray?

Are we so far gone and lost our way?

That we can't find a day,

When we think of others, before ourselves.

Can we put our stuff upon a shelf?

Can we learn to share and stand in line?

Let someone else go ahead and be kind.

Learn charity and patience,

And be humble, can we find the time?

Oh if I could get on the computer right now,

Spread this message for all to see.

It is important for me, and for those who need

To see the light, to spread the seed.

But, no, others are clogging the net.

They don't understand the message they need to get.

Don't they understand?

It's all about me.
